You shouldn't get this route in 2019 unless you are on a mission. Recommended for utility and experience, but that's it. (+) The AEM-7 is great to learn NEC signaling. (+) The route was updated in 2016 - I didn't have signaling issues (yet). (-) Just about acceptable graphics - I can't even get close to the product page screenshots. (-) A few (4) surprise speed limits - have a notebook at hand. One scenario with entirely off timings. If you like this section. - Get North Jersey Coast Line & Morristown first. It covers the Northern 20 miles in better quality, is fairly fast, and offers NJT trains. - Get New York - New Haven afterwards. Much prettier, albeit slower. - If at this point you have an itch to drive the ACS-64 and Acela at higher speeds, try the AEM-7 or the GG1, this route offers plenty of 110mph running. If you are willing to replace some trains (to ALP-45, 46, Acela, HHP-8, ACS-64, CSX, NS freight) in the scenarios, that won't even be boring. The workshop has plenty of scenarios, but many of them include items not available anymore.
